HOMERATHON

2019

The Homerathon is an annual tradition presented by Eta Sigma Phi, the Classics Honors Society, and the faculty of Classics. Each year, volunteers work together to read one of Homer's epics aloud in English from start to finish in a single day, punctuated by fun activities. This year's Homerathon will present The Iliad and will run from 6:00am through 11:00pm. Please join us as we celebrate one of the most influential bards of all time!
